

On April 13th people across the world will call for a shift in priorities. To tackle climate change rather than wage war, fund hospitals rather than arms companies.

* The UK's military spending in 2014 was £38 Billion - while vital public services saw drastic cuts.

* Redirecting the cost of the new Trident nuclear weapons alone would solve the crisis in our NHS.

* Over £700 million of public funds is spent every year subsidising arms company sales to foreign-buyers, including brutal dictatorships.

* The UK government spends 25 times more on researching weapons than it does on researching renewable energy solutions.

This is not creating security, but fueling a global cycle of violence and instability. We say enough. We demand peace and prosperity, no more public sponsorship for torture, killing and destruction.
